

EPISCOPAL CHURCH NOTES.

Among the important legislation passed by the General Convention during the week was the canon relating to suffragan bishops which the house of bishops has proposed a constitutional amendment making it necessary to obtain the consent of a majority of the bishops and standing committees before any suffragan can be elected.

A suffragan bishop, it should be explained, is simply an assistant bishop without any right to succeed to the charge of the diocese whenever its bishop becomes vacant. The suffragan is different in this respect from the coadjutor bishop. The bishops of New York and Pennsylvania will probably ask at once for suffragans. In the case of Pennsylvania, that diocese has already two bishops, the diocesan and a coadjutor, the latter Dr. Mackay-Smith, formerly rector of St. John's Church, in this city. Unfortunately the diocesan is old and infirm, and the coadjutor is in poor health.

By the very narrow margin of one vote in the lay order the General Convention disapproved of the proposal to change the title page of the prayer book. If one layman in either of the eight dioceses that divided had voted in the affirmative the measure would have been carried.

The diocese of Washington was one of the eight dioceses of which both the clerical and lay vote was divided on the most important issue. It is always a misfortune when a diocese is practically unrepresented on a great question.

Rev. R. H. McKim, chairman of the house of deputies, won golden opinions during this debate on the change of name for its impartiality in recognizing the well-known opponents as well as the well-known friends of the measure.

The new mission hymnal has been adopted by the convention, as also the new amendment providing for the election of the presiding bishop. Hereafter that officer must come into his office simply by virtue of election, although if the electors are as fortunate in their elections as the church has been in such presiding officers as Bishop Tuttle, happy will they be.

To-morrow at 4:30 o'clock a full cathedral service without sermon will be rendered in St. Thomas Church.

In presenting to the convention the reports for the past three years of the Church Unity Society, Bishop Talbot, the president of the society, referred to all the Right Rev. Henry Tattersall,

Bishop of Washington, a wise counselor and an enthusiastic friend of the cause, who had passed away. Bishop Tattersall's loss to the cause was, indeed, a great one.

This convention of Cincinnati, which came to its close yesterday, will go down to history as a convention which attended strictly to its work, and as a consequence it has made large contributions to history.

During the absence from Washington of the Rev. Dr. McKim in Cincinnati, Rev. J. Sanders Reed has been helping in the preaching at Epiphany Church.

Rev. George W. Davenport, of Danbury, Conn., was on a visit to his parents this week at the rectory, Anacostia. Since leaving Washington the young rector has "made good." He has now a number of more than 600 communicants. The vestry has given him an assistant, with whose help he carries on a mission begun by himself.

Work on the new buildings of the Episcopal Home for Children in Anacostia, is progressing very nicely. The buildings are now covered in, and work on the inside is being rushed rapidly. It is the intention of the management to have the work completed before Christmas, so that the waiting children may have a comfortable home "here the winter storm sets in." In the old and cramped quarters of the home they are craning now for as many as fifty little ones.

The opening service of the Woman's Auxiliary is to be held in St. John's Church, Lafayette Square, Wednesday, November 2. Bishop Brent, who twice declined the offer of the bishopric of Washington, is the appointed speaker.

Last Sunday the rector of St. John's, Lafayette square, Rev. R. Cotton Smith, D. D., gave a good illustration of the strenuous life. He arrived in the city at 10:30 from Cincinnati, preached to his people at 11 and went off again at 3 o'clock. Dr. Cotton Smith is one of the convention delegates from this diocese.

During the summer St. John's has been considerably renovated. The seats have been covered with a dark red damask, new carpets and curtains have been added and the rectory painted. Altogether a pleasant surprise awaited the home-coming worshippers.

The Weekly Bulletin, issued by Rev. J. J. Dimon, rector of St. Andrew's Church, which made its appearance for the first time last Sunday, is a most helpful sheet. It contains full notices of all the services of the day, the numbers of the hymns, and all the week's appointments. Last night the rector lectured on Westminster Abbey. The lecture, which was illustrated, was given under the auspices of the Junior Guild.

Next week the new pulpit given to St. John's by Mrs. Thomas I. Bayard is to be put into place. The pulpit, made from a sketch done by Mr. Vaughan, co-architect of the National Cathedral, matches exactly in style the altar rail which Mrs. Bayard gave two years ago.

At the flourishing Chapel of the Advent, St. Mary's, the rector, Rev. Dr. Correll, Sunday service at 4 p. m. for deaf mutes, conducted by the lay reader, Mr. Merrill. In the sign language. At a social held a day or two ago some forty were present to hear a lecture on Pike's Peak, when all was in the silent language.

Rev. Mr. Abbott is giving a special course of sermons on Sundays on "The devotional use of the Bible."

The Washington Clerical met last Tuesday at the Common Club. Before the business session the members were entertained at luncheon by Dr. George Williamson Smith, Dr. T. S. Childs, rector, of Church of the Holy Spirit. His subject was "The labor problem." Among the volunteer speakers were Revs. G. Freeman, Dr. W. J. D. Thompson, Edward S. Dunlap, C. Abbott, Dr. William De Vries, and Dr. Williamson Smith. Owing to the absence in Cincinnati of many members, the meeting was smaller than usual.

The laying of the corner stone of the extension to the hospital in memory of Charles Alfred James, on the Feast of St. Simon and St. Jude, Friday, October 22, will be done by the Bishop of Washington, assisted by many of the clergy of the diocese and the board of governors.

On the heights above Anacostia, known as Congress Heights, is the diocese of Washington's baby parish—baby only because it is the youngest born. Since Rev. Mr. Davenport's resignation it has been without a rector, though Rev. W. G. Davenport, rector of Emmanuel Church, Anacostia, has been seeing to it that the services have been maintained. An arrangement has just been made whereby Rev. Charles F. Sontag becomes locum tenens.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES.

Endeavorers in large numbers will greet Field Secretary Lehmann and Mrs. Lehmann at Calvary Baptist Church on Tuesday, November 1. At 6 o'clock a study class led by Mr. Lehmann will consider "The place of Christian Endeavor in the church" and "Committee organization." At 8 o'clock a mass meeting will be held in Calvary Sunday School House, when Mr. Lehmann will speak on "What Christian Endeavor stands for."

The Silver Bay echo meeting of Mount Pleasant Congregational Endeavor Society last Sunday evening was well attended. After song service by the F. C. C. choir, Harold P. Greenwald talked on the Pen-Mat conference. After a prayer by Mr. Miles Shand the needs of the mission field were presented with the aid of charts and the notes printed. Altogether a pleasant surprise awaited the home-coming worshippers.
